

Report: Yield Prediction Report

Model Performance Report

=====

Model: LinearRegression

The provided data from the farmer can be analyzed using a linear regression model. In this case, the model can be used to interpret how the yield varies over the years, allowing us to identify trends and predict future yields based on historical data. This relationship highlights the influence of time (year) on agricultural productivity (yield).

The given chart explains the results

Yield Prediction Report

